The University of Waterloo, Campus Wellness, is currently seeking a Nurse Practitioner (NP) with a clinical skill set in supporting hormone-related concerns, reproductive health, sexual health, pelvic health, women's and man's health, gender-affirming care, and/or primary care to join our growing team. Significant support is available with regular interaction and shared care possibilities with nurses, physicians, psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, and counsellors. There is preference for candidates with demonstrated capacity to work with diverse communities such as the BIPOC and/or LGBTQ2+ communities and a comfort level and competence in mental health issues is beneficial.

This position is responsible for meeting and maintaining the standards of practice prescribed in legislation and regulations that apply to the position as outlined in the practice expectations specific to Registered Nurses in the Extended Class from the College of Nurses of Ontario. In this role, the Nurse Practitioner works to full scope of practice.
